CAUCASIAN ABROAD.

[From the New Orleans (La.) Herald, Oct. 16.]

THE MISSING LINK.

Donan, of the Lexington (Mo.) Caucasian tells a rather fishy story of a child that was born in the vicinity of the place that the Caucasian illuminates with the calcum light of its eccentric genius, with a well-developed caudal appendage several inches in length. He throws the cauca of his story upon a nameless physician, who was called in to amputate the "missing link" but we shall utterly spurn and repudiate the story until we see the tail itself. So embaim it in spices and pickle it in alcohol and send it along. Mr. Caucasian, or the people down here will regard you as somewhat given to Munchausenism.

been writing through the country trying to obtain the publication of a letter presented and that President Grant will be "assassinated before the 10th day of April, 1874." The editor of the Lexington (Mo.) Caucasian publishes the assassination be committed, and says it will "afford the Caucasian protound pleasure to announce on the morning of April II. that Mr. Harper has won his bet!" There should be some swift and certain method of placing this pair of fools in the lunatic asylum or the penitentary. The grand juries of their respective counties should take them in hand without delay.
